CHAIRPERSON'S NOTE

As a forum of National Human Rights Institutions in South East Asia region, SEANF was established based on the opinion that human rights are imperative the advances of international level, in general, and in the national level, exclusively.

SEANF is mainly committed to recognize human rights which include the rights of civil and politics, economics, social and cultural for individuals and groups regardless of race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, political views, social status, and disabilities for the sake of creating equality, justice, freedom and a life with dignity and without discrimination.

Through this opportunity, I encourage all parties to be at the forefront of supporting the promotion and enforcement of human rights.

The period of the chairmanship of Komnas HAM at SEANF is a historic moment since it was marked by the COVID-19 pandemic. Nevertheless, the pandemic does not dampen the activities of promoting and enforcing human rights for all SEANF members.

The members have successfully adapted to the fact that the work of human rights seems to raise hope; a hope for life without discrimination in all aspects of life. Even more, the hope of opening up fair and equal access to education, health, economy, and a better life.

Advocating the views of human rights has becoming even more crucial to the creation of a just, peaceful, and inclusive development. It is imperative for us to mobilize any resources in our possession to achieve the honorable goal.

As the Chairperson of SEANF, I would like to address my appreciation on the important roles that the members of SEANF have given their best effort in driving forward and upholding human rights in their respective countries. NHRI has and always will be both of the upstream and downstream for the victims of human rights violation. They have been relocated in a proper place and alternative naration through researches, publication, and recommendation have been made by NHRI.

Human rights are gifts that are inherent in every human being, but ensuring that this gift is still upheld requires hard work and sacrifice. Upholding and advancing human rights to conform to the lofty ideals of humanity can only be achieved through collective work, both at the national and international levels. On this basis, SEANF will remain relevant to the global dynamics and situation.

INTRODUCTION

ABOUT SEANF

The South East Asia National Human Rights Institutions Forum (SEANF) is a consultative body for human rights institutions in the South East Asia region. Initially, the forum was established through the signing of the Declaration of Cooperation in Bali, Indonesia on June 28, 2007 which was signed by four human rights institutions, namely Indonesia (Komnas HAM), Malaysia (SUHAKAM), the Philippines (CHRP), and Thailand (NHRCT) which named themselves as ASEAN Four NHRIs. Furthermore, the forum held the 4th Consultative Meeting of the ASEAN Four in Manila, Philippines in 2008, the forum officially agreed to use the name ASEAN NHRI Forum. ASEAN Four NHRIs became the forerunners of SEANF.

In its sixth year, the National Human Rights Institutions (NHRIs) held a meeting in November 2009 in Yogyakarta, Indonesia. This forum then again agreed to change the name from the ASEAN NHRI Forum to SEANF. SEANF aims to organize its members as a regional mechanism for the protection, promotion, and fulfillment of effective human rights for communities in the South East Asian region. The operational implementation of SEANF refers to the SEANF Rules of Procedures (RoP), which last amendment was provisionally on 10 November 2017 at the 14th Annual Conference in Manila. SEANF's work also refers to the 2012-2016 Strategic Planning and has been updated with the 2017-2021 Strategic Planning. The meeting mechanism to discuss SEANF activities is discussed in two technical meetings (Technical Working Group) and one Annual Conference (Annual Conference). If needed, SEANF can hold special meetings or additional meetings to discuss important issues.¹

SEANF is a distinctive organization with a special character, where it has the mandate to promote, protect and fulfill human rights effectively in the South East Asia region. However, referring to the RoP SEANF, each national human rights institution has independence of members, so that SEANF will not affect the authority, scope of work and function of these institutions.²

Along its development, SEANF actively collaborates with stakeholders in their respective countries. Several issues has been the concern for SEANF member countries, including the issue of refugees, the elderly, people with disabilities as well as business and human rights issues.

The general objective of SEANF is to organize these human rights institutions in order to carry out the mechanism of promotion, protection and fulfillment of human rights for people in the South East Asian region.³

Meanwhile, SEANF's specific objectives are:

- 1) Strengthening SEANF as an independent and professional institution through capacity building and promoting cooperation and coordination among its members;
- 2) Promote the establishment and strengthening of

1. A Special Meeting to discuss Rule of Procedure on 2012 and other a meeting to discuss Permanent Secretariat pada 2016.
2. Rule of Procedure, Art. 7.
3. Rule of Procedure, Art.3.

- national human rights institutions in South East Asia in accordance with the Paris Principles;
- 3) Strengthen networks with academic institutions, non-governmental organizations and civil society organizations, governments in the South East Asia region and international human rights organizations, especially APF and GAHNRI;
 - 4) Establishing a Permanent Secretariat with sufficient financial and human resources;
 - 5) Recommending laws, policies, efforts and remedies in the framework of protecting, advancing and fulfilling human rights in the South East Asia region in line with international human rights standards;
 - 6) Take collective action in an effective and timely manner in responding to urgent human rights issues.

As a regional NHRI network, SEANF plays an important role in protecting and promoting human rights in South East Asia. Working under a cooperative framework, SEANF members carry out joint projects or activities to discuss issues of common concern such as human trafficking, migrant workers, statelessness, business and human rights, corruption and others.

To strengthen and expand their network, they continue to strive to encourage the governments of each country in South East Asia to build independent human rights institutions. SEANF collaborates with the Asia Pacific Forum (APF), the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institution (GANHRI) which was formerly known as ICC, Office of the High Commissioner on Human Rights (OHCHR), and other human rights organizations to further promote and protect human rights at the national, regional and international levels.

Currently, SEANF membership consists of 6 national human rights institutions, namely : Komisi Nasional Hak Asasi Manusia Republik Indonesia (Komnas HAM RI), Suruhanjaya Hak Asasi Manusia Malaysia (SUHAKAM), Commission on Human Rights of the Republic of Philippines (CHRP), National Human Rights Commission of Thailand (NHRCT), Myanmar National Human Rights Commission (MNHRC), dan Provedoria dos Direitos Humanos e Justiça (PDHJ) of Timor-Leste.

WORKS OF SEANF (DEC 2019-NOV 2020)

a. Guidelines for the Use of SEANF Social Media Platform

The initiation to develop Guidelines for the Use of SEANF Social Media Platform was initially presented by NHRCT at TWG 2 SEANF 2019, in Dili, Timor Leste, with the aim of establishing effective communication channels among SEANF members. This guideline regulates policies, communication flow management, duties and responsibilities of the SEANF communication working group and the Permanent Secretariat as well as the form of data that can be publicly released.

b. SEANF Guidelines on Torture Prevention

In 2017, SEANF and APT (Association for Prevention of Torture) members started collaboration in torture prevention and held intensive discussions to produce torture prevention guidelines. The SEANF torture prevention manual contains the experience and expertise of SEANF members in six main areas, i.e.; mobilizing change, strengthening law enforcement and justice, increasing transparency in detention systems, protecting people in vulnerable situations and engaging the international community. The guidelines drafting process has been completed and it is planned to be adopted at the 16th Annual Conference of SEANF in 2019, when it was adopted in the form of an ad referendum pending approval from the NHRCT. Guidelines have been discussed twice in technical meetings 1 and 2 in 2020, and subject to pending approval of NHRCT.

c. NHRI Roles at the times of COVID-19 Pandemic

During the pandemic, NHRIs play an important role, including giving advice to the government through recommendations on how to protect human rights in the times of pandemic, sharing information and experiences with stakeholders regarding the protection and enforcement of human rights during the pandemic, and maintaining both virtual and non-virtual access to stakeholders. SEANF members made various efforts in order to maximize their role during the pandemic, which was presented virtually in TWG 1. OBSERVATIONS AND FUTURE DIRECTIONS

Strengthening SEANF as an Institution

a. Adoption of SEANF Rule of Procedures (RoP) Update

The Rules of Procedure (RoP), which was temporarily formalized in 2017 during the Annual Conference in Manila, were opened to improvements, if deemed necessary, by the SEANF members. The RoP regulates the name, objectives, scope and function, membership, structure, chairmanship, executive board, secretariat, to name a few.

Under the consideration of current situation development, Komnas HAM and several other SEANF members intend to review the RoP. Currently, Komnas HAM will ask for input on the RoP which has been put effect by the members in 2017.

In the 17th Annual Conference, SEANF members agreed to sign the RoP that has been provisionally adopted in 2017. They agreed to insert 26 November 2020 in closing document without mentioning the place of signing. SEANF members agreed on the mechanism of RoP's signing and distribution. The signing will be done by e-sign and pen signature. Then, it will be circulated among six members.

There are some inputs on SEANF logo design from SEANF Member that was suggested in the 17th Annual Conference. Public Outreach

a. Joint Press Releases

Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines national human rights institutions address the issue of statelessness

QUEZON CITY—The national human rights institutions (NHRIs) of Indonesia, Malaysia, and the Philippines—Komnas HAM, SUHAKAM, and the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) respectively—inked a memorandum of understanding (MOU) on Friday, 24 July 2020, to strengthen efforts in addressing statelessness and the protection of the rights and welfare of stateless persons and persons at risk of statelessness in Sabah.

The MOU signing was done remotely through a web conference, NHRI joined the MOU signing from their respective countries, and it was aired live on their official social media pages.

The new MOU builds on the previous efforts of Komnas HAM and SUHAKAM by adding CHR as a main signatory from being an observer in last year's cooperative agreement.

The exact number of people who may be affected by statelessness in the context of Sabah is difficult to establish because of the complexity of mixed migration and geopolitical issues surrounding the region. Stateless persons are confronted with challenges of lacking or no documentation. The case in Sabah, many stateless persons are of Indonesian and Filipino descent. This scenario makes them vulnerable to dehumanizing crimes of trafficking, harassment, and exploitation.

Stateless persons who are “not considered as a national by any State under the operation of its law”, are often deprived of their basic human rights, such as equality before the law and rights to work, education, healthcare, and to own a property.

Initial steps towards fully documenting stateless persons were already taken by the said NHRIs, alongside representatives from their respective governments, starting with a workshop in 2019.

In the coming months, Komnas HAM, SUHAKAM, and CHR will increasingly engage government agencies and stakeholders in their respective countries. Regional and international collaboration is also being sought, including a case referral mechanism. For Philippines, site visits are also eyed in the Sarangani Province, Davao, and Zamboanga in Mindanao as part of the NHRI cross-border community engagement in these affected areas.

NHRIs, focusses on human rights and humanitarian issues on the ground, and they always ready to mediate the dialogues between governments and relevant stakeholders.

As it is crucial and timely that the three NHRIs are intensifying efforts to work closely with their respective governments, and other stakeholders by ensuring that stateless persons are treated with dignity and their rights are upheld their rights, such as access to asylum and justice, decent work, education, healthcare, freedom of movement, liberty, and non-refoulement should be taken more seriously and also we have to make sure that there stateless person rights is being fulfilled.

b. Joint Statements

South East Asia National Human Rights Institutions Forum (SEANF) Statement on the Situation of Migrants and Members of their Families amid the COVID-19 Pandemic

The South East Asia National Human Rights Institutions Forum (SEANF), comprising national human rights institutions (NHRIs) from 6 countries in the region, namely the National Human Rights Commission of Indonesia (Komnas HAM), the Human Rights Commission of Malaysia (SUHAKAM), the Myanmar National Human Rights Commission (MNHRC), the Commission on Human Rights of the Philippines (CHRP), the National Human Rights Commission of Thailand (NHRCT) and the Provedoria dos Direitos Humanos e Justiça (PDHJ) of Timor-Leste, issues this statement to draw particular attention to the plight of migrants and members of their families in South East Asia amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

The impacts of the pandemic, lockdown restrictions and emergency powers of States, on migrants and members of their families are greatly visible and alarming. We cannot stress quite enough how the rights and dignity of migrants and their families have been significantly affected by the pandemic and its health, socio-economic, and political repercussions.

Migrants, including undocumented, irregular, low-skilled migrant workers, refugees and stateless persons have faced and continue to experience xenophobia, discrimination, barriers to access to healthcare services and social protection measures, and exclusion in pandemic responses.¹ Migrant workers in the informal sectors, majority of whom are women, have been at greater risk of gender-based violence as stay-at-home orders posed difficulty in leaving abusive employers.

The International Labor Organization (ILO) estimated that the COVID-19 pandemic has affected a total of 2.7 billion workers, or around 81% of the world's workforce.² Lockdowns and related business disruptions, travel restrictions, and other containment measures have had drastic impacts on workers and enterprises. Migrant workers are part of this affected workforce who are pushed to return to their home countries for loss of jobs. Aside from difficulties to secure basic livelihood, and insufficient support and services for their return journey³, migrant workers also face other challenges such as poor conditions in quarantine facilities and lack of adequate health care and transportation. There are also reports of cases of wage theft wherein migrant workers are sent home without salaries or other employment benefits and with no recourse or means for redress.⁴

SEANF recognizes the plight of the migrants and members of their families who grapple with the loss of their jobs or income and who may experience fear and suffering as a result of the pandemic. SEANF members also offers its deepest condolences to migrants and their families who have lost loved ones to COVID-19. The pandemic has highlighted the contributions of migrants in their host and home countries (which by the way have always been significant even before COVID-19) – migrant workers are considerably part of the healthcare workforce who are the front liners in the pandemic response; they are also the backbone of the food and service industry making sure that people who are in quarantine are provided with their basic necessities.

Noting the Governments' initiatives to address the concerns of migrants and their families, SEANF wishes to underline the importance for the sending and receiving member states of ASEAN and South East Asia to ensure the full and effective implementation of the ASEAN Consensus on the Protection and Promotion of the Rights of Migrant Workers, taking into account the fundamental rights and dignity of migrant workers and family members especially on the protection from exploitation, discrimination and violence, and proper labour migration governance and the fight against trafficking in persons.

SEANF urges the Member States in South East Asia to adopt and implement the recommendations by the UN Committee on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of their Families and the UN Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants in their Joint Guidance Note on the Impacts of the COVID-19 Pandemic on Human Rights of Migrants⁵ among which are the following:

1. “Integrate migrant workers into national COVID-19 prevention and response plans and policies;
2. Include migrants and their families, regardless of their migration status, in economic recovery policies, taking into account the need for the recovery of remittance flows;

5. 3. Pro-actively prevent discrimination and scapegoating of individuals or groups of migrants;
4. Guarantee the right of all migrants and their families to return to the country of which they are nationals; and

SEANF also urges fellow NHRIs in the sending and receiving countries to remain vigilant in guaranteeing that immediate and proper assistance is given to all migrants. Coordination with other NHRIs in origin, receiving and transit countries is encouraged to ensure that migrants who are stranded or are in distress have access to justice and remedies.

The regional reviews of the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration (Global Compact for Migration or GCM) would be good venues as well for States and relevant stakeholders such as civil society and NHRIs to comprehensively update on the milestones, challenges, and gaps in implementing the GCM.⁶ The regional reviews are happening in this critical juncture, in which the GCM can help in addressing the negative impacts of the pandemic on the human rights of migrants and their families, and enhancing the positive contributions of migrants.

SEANF will continue to engage with the respective governments, civil society organizations, as well as regional and international human rights institutions to find just and sustainable solutions, access to justice and redress for labor rights and human rights issues violations experienced by migrants and members of their families, particularly in this time of the pandemic.

5. Open Discussion

- 5.1. CHRP Commissioner Karen Gomez-Dumpit expressed her gratitude to NHRCT for their assistance in facilitating support for the Pakistan migrant currently detained and facing the death penalty.
- 5.2. Deputy Director of MNHRC Zay Yar Linn noted that the sharing of developments by each SEANF member is encouraging and is beneficial as it serves to circulate valuable information and ideas which may be useful in developing similar initiatives in local context. Requested that copies of presentations are circulated to allow each member to learn about respective best practices in-depth.

6. SEANF Guidelines for use of SEANF social media platform and the approval of guidelines

- 6.1. NHRCT noted that the commission has developed a co-management tool for SEANF Social Media to form of Guidelines consisting of 7 (seven) articles. NHRCT suggested that the Permanent Secretariat should be owner and manager of the platform. Emphasizing on the SEANF fundamental principle of cooperation, NHRCT suggested that Working Group members and their respective National Human Rights Institutions will have a duty to consider the dissemination of information and the quality of publications on the social media platform in accordance to their respective internal procedures.
- 6.3. SUHAKAM raised concerns in regards to item 3.2 (2), and item 5.1 of the SEANF social media platform guidelines as said items may affect SEANF's capacity to be responsive and issue statements in a timely manner to address current issues. SUHAKAM stated that individual postings that are in line with international human rights standards should be released immediately by the responsible NHRI and not be subject to the decision of the Working Group to prevent any form of delay in social media updates. SUHAKAM was also of the view that item 5.1 of the guidelines is too restrictive for social media postings as NHRIs should instead, be aligned with international human rights standards.

- 6.3. MNHRC noted that if the intention is to submit guidelines to Annual Conference, members must find a way to discuss the issue with funding and resource persons. MNHRC suggested setting a deadline to guideline to receive comments and inputs relating to the guidelines.
- 6.4. CHRP agreed with concerns raised by SUHAKAM and proposed the setting of a specific timeline to provide comments and failure to respond within the timeline would entail that the institution is in favour of the posting of the statement. The recommended timeline would be as follows :
- Two (2) weeks from 2nd TWG Meeting, for the NHRI to designate a member to the Working Group;
 - Within the month of September, circulating the final draft for fine tuning and finalization by the Commissioners to prevent lengthy discussion during its presentation for approval during the Annual Conference; and
 - Presentation and Approval of the Guidelines during the Annual Conference.

Additionally, CHRP recommended that while waiting for official approval of guidelines and SEANF Secretariat documents, there are discussions which need to be publicized and SEANF members must agree on how information will be posted. CHRP suggested that while waiting for the finalization of the guidelines, SEANF members should consider an agreement on fundraising for the maintenance of SEANF social media platforms as additional human resources will be required for development or maintenance of such platforms.

- 6.5. Komnas HAM noted that the discussion fundraising on social media has been addressed in a previous meeting where it was agreed that Komnas HAM will host the SEANF website. However, Komnas HAM is still in the process of developing the website. Further, Komnas HAM noted that since SEANF has yet to come to an agreement as regards external funding, Komnas HAM will provide the budget for 2020 and 2021.
- 6.6. Agreeing with CHRP and SUHAKAM, Komnas HAM endorsed the idea that each member should appoint representatives to attend a Working Group on the matter. Komnas HAM suggested to host the Working Group within the next two weeks. Each representative will be tasked to report the discussion to their respective commissioners.
- 6.7. In response to SUHAKAM, NHRCT explained that the Working Group approval mechanism (item 3.2(2) was designed to respond to inquiries quickly. NHRCT agreed that swift cooperation is required to ensure that item 3.2 (2) of the guideline is effective. In regards to point 5.1, NHRCT noted that organizations operating within Thailand must comply with constitution and domestic laws. However, NCHRT also notes that although Thailand promotes freedom of expression as guaranteed by article 19 and 20 of ICCPR, members of the Working Group must be responsible for ensuring that their posts do not contravene their respective domestic laws and constitution.

7. Updates on SEANF Anti-Torture Guidelines

- 7.1. NHRCT referred to 16th SEANF Annual Conference in October 2019 in which SEANF members agreed to approve the draft SEANF guidelines on torture prevention ad referendum, pending the NHRCT's approval due to lack of quorum in according to the Organic Act of the NHRCT B.E. 2560 (2017) – 'Organic Act'. The NHRCT opines that anti-torture guidelines contains details which implicitly oblige the NHRCT to act inconsistently with the Organic Act and has impeded implementations.
- 7.2. MNHRC noted that despite the consensus decision to adopt the guideline was made on 16th Annual Conference, the NHRCT seems to be facing difficulties with its constitution. However, MNHRC encourages SEANF members to explore avenues which could allow members, whether directly or indirectly, to utilise the guidelines.
- 7.3. CHRP seeks clarification as to which provisions of the current guidelines are considered inflexible or not in alignment with local laws for the purposes of revision. Additionally, CHRP suggested separability clause which would in essence, say that if there are provisions inconsistent with local laws, such provisions shall not affect the remainder of provisions which are consistent.
- 7.4. SUHAKAM noted that the guidelines are not legally binding in nature and it serves as a reference for members.
- 7.5. In response to CHRP, NHRCT noted that, although the guidelines are considered soft law, the commission opines that parts of the guidelines are still required to comply to their domestic laws. The NHRCT will draft proposal to be presented at the upcoming Annual Conference which is set to be convened in two months (end of October or beginning of November 2020).

8. Baseline Papers on the Migrant Workers in South East Asia

- 8.1. CHRP noted that a joint-activity as well as the draft of a baseline paper was proposed during the last TWG of the SEANF. As regards the joint-activity, CHRP mentioned that the pandemic has exacerbated the human rights situation in the Philippines and the CHRP has released a statement. The draft of the 2010 paper will be circulated pending approval from commissioners at this stage.

CHRP proposed that between now and Annual Conference in two months, CHRP will communicate online and share documents in Google drive with SEANF members to allow TWG participants and Commissioners time to revise the documents before the Annual Conference.

The 2010 paper was drafted with the consultation of SUHAKAM. However, at this stage, human resources are limited. Therefore, the paper may not be completed within 2020. As such, CHRP suggested that it is a good opportunity to implement membership wide initiatives with the support of other NHRIs and GANHRI.

CHRP shared its online compendium which acts as a repository for documents and reports concerning migrant rights - Migrant's rights observatory online. In its website, stakeholders and right holders have access to information. This three-year initiative, funded by the European Union, has piloted four thematic human rights concerns: indigenous, gender, climate, and migrants. The site currently stores 39 documents such as international conventions and agreements of NHRI's on migrant rights. It also houses Supreme Court cases concerning migrant workers which is being analysed into a policy paper that will be used to accurately advise governments of the gaps in regulation and policy implementation. Further, the site provides an analysis of complied cases through visualisation of data. CHRP observed that documents don't operate in silo and that they have determined a pattern in the types of violence and cases.

The importance of this baseline study cannot be understated as it compiles narrative reports which are submitted to UN agencies, and charter-based bodies in the UN and the assembly through global compact of migration. Additionally, there is a need to quantify the progress of executive bodies in vernacularizing international obligations guaranteed by treaties into domestic law. CHRP's visualization of Supreme Court cases resulted in the identification of indicators which will be useful for the monitoring of government compliance to international provisions. This initiative relied heavily on the conceptual framework of the OHCHR. At this stage, the CHRP has identified 8 (eight) overarching indicators which are divided into stages of migration. The CHRP has identified several important indicators -that the social cost of migration also includes 'families left behind'; that most Overseas Foreign Workers (OFWs) are women working in the service sector- domestic work; and while the Philippines has a robust regulatory framework and has ratified many international conventions/frameworks, receiving countries may not have ratified to conventions. There is lack of harmonization and bilateral cooperation has resulted in gaps which continue to negatively affect OFWs. While the Philippines has adopted laws and modified policies, implementation still needs improvement.

CHRP asserts that socio-economic integration should be a priority as OFWs often struggle with unemployment as there are no sustainable or decent jobs which can be accessed upon return to home country. Additionally, CHRP suggests that SEANF members should consider the issue of 'wage theft' - migrant workers sent home without full salaries or without salaries with no recourse to redress. A potential solution may be for SEANF members to consider endorsing the 'Urgent Justice Mechanism for repatriated migrant workers' which comprises of three main concepts – to establish international claims commission, compensation fund, and reforming national justice systems.

CHRP raised the concern that although the baseline study and indicators have been useful in developing recommendations to their government, most ministerial agencies often work in silo according to their own documentation and case management system. Consequently, it is difficult to gain access to numbers and data. In order to address this issue, CHRP is seeking to develop a national level standard to monitor migrant rights. CHRP research suggested that OFWs have increasingly accessed social media since the onset of the pandemic. As such, CHRP is looking to develop a publicly accessible social platform which will allow the commission to receive complaints and provide legal assistance. CHRP pointed out that this initiative may prove to be effective as the CHRP has signed a Memoranda of Understanding on statelessness. During their action plan, the CHRP hopes to develop referral system with the cases compiled.

9. Findings on the Human Rights Defender Inquiry

9.1. CHRP established and opened a report in pursuit of a resolution by its commissioners calling for the inquiry of the situation of human rights defenders in the Philippines. The process of resolution, conducted objectively, was based on several factors: evidence-based fact finding, it was non-adversarial, dialogic, voluntary, and principles of due process were observed. The resolution findings concluded that there is a threat against human rights defenders and noted that the life, liberty, and security of Human Rights Defenders (HRDs) is at risk to varying degrees when performing their obligations. The findings also concluded that these threats distort the human rights concept within the country and takes form in several ways:

- Public vilification conducted by government officials -to cast HR defenders in a negative light as person(s) with the agenda of destabilizing the State;
- Red-tagging – HR defenders tagged as communist/rebel groups. This has the effect of pushing HR defenders operate underground not operate within the democratic space;
- Profiling of surveilling HR defenders- not illegal per se but this mechanism is misused as it should only be implemented formally as an anti-criminal strategy. These activities may be used as a weapon to be used against HRDs and are usually accompanied by death threats and intimidation;

- Militarization of government- worrying trend of appointing former military officers into civilian government agencies. This is not illegal but has the effect of leaving disproportionate level of power the political prerogative of the executive branch. Additionally, it may propagate a culture of authoritarianism often adopted by officers during their time in service of the military;
- Weaponization of the law against HRDs – there are allegations of governments using means to operate beyond of the rule of law. For example -cases have been filed against HRDs which are often eventually dismissed by courts. Another example is the use of the overly broad and vague provisions within the anti-terrorism act- the term ‘provoke or intimidate the government’ leaves room for misinterpretation and has allowed the government to curtail certain civil liberties.

The government has failed to meet its international obligations guaranteed by the UN Declaration on the Rights of Human Rights Defenders. The points above contribute to the shrinking of civic space and the climate of impunity in the Philippines. Objective recommendations based on findings of the inquiry:

- Combat impunity – investigate all allegations of criminal acts against HRDs. Prosecute and punish all those guilty of such acts;
- Enforce the doctrine of command responsibility for all violations against HRDs – hold superiors of individuals committing extra-judicial killing accountable;

- Prohibit violations against HRDs – red-tagging, vilification etc; refrain from harassing journalists and HRDs with libel, slander or any other criminal and civil cases to discourage or prevent them from speaking truth to power;
- Prevent the abuse of state organs to curtail media licensing, taxation, and franchise; Grant journalists and HRDs full access to information on matters of public concern -guaranteed under constitution;
- Expedite court processes for the quick resolution of human rights violation cases; do not sabotage network-building of HRDs.

CHRP noted that non-state actors are equally responsible for the respecting the rule of law in their quest for human rights. Where non-state actors transgress the law, there is no excuse for the State to commit extra-judicial killings, enforced disappearances, torture, or any other form of human rights violations. Such acts destroy the moral fabric and foundation of the rule of law.

CHRP presentation and publication will be circulated to all SEANF members.

10. Open Discussion

- 10.1. MNHRC: what is the CHRP's plan on following up the recommendations? Monitor the implementation of the recommendations?
- 10.2. CHRP: publishing reports/sending copies to relevant agencies of government. We have efforts within congress in areas such as advocating certain changes in anti-terrorism law to make it less prone as a tool to be used to violate human rights. CHRP has several avenues within the institution as we have the promotion, protection, and advisory clusters.

CHRP cannot refrain security sector members to stop violating human rights. What we can do is remind the government that we are bound by a number of international human rights instruments. We can appeal to the conscience of the government and emphasize our commitment to international conventions such as the ICCPR.

- 10.3. Komnas HAM noted that this is also a prominent issue in Indonesia and that it has established a special task force to address issues relating to violations against HRDs
- 10.4. PDHJ sent the baseline paper on the Rights of People with Disabilities in South East Asia to Komnas HAM which has been adopted in 16th Annual Conference in October 2019 . PDHJ requested Komnas HAM to distribute the paper to SEANF members and make it accessible to the public by uploading it to the SEANF social media.

11. Establishment of SEANF Permanent Secretariat (Discussion Host Country Agreement)

- 11.1. Komnas HAM noted that the HCA was drafted based on SEANF Rules of Procedures 2017. Zero draft has been submitted to SEANF members. However, Komnas HAM is currently in the midst of significant structural amendments of the zero draft HCA as a result of recent consultations with MoFA. However, Komnas HAM is currently in the midst of significant structural amendments of the zero draft HCA as a result of recent consultations with MoFA.

11.2. PDHJ had an informal discussion with APF. Sub regional office and MoU funded by Qatar government but raises issues of independence. APF does not think it is suitable as Qatar is a sub-regional office. SEANF is a consensus based on institution by nature -unlikely to work. Autonomy under threat with suggested sub regional Qatar office MoU format. Important to gain immunity for staff, raises issues relating to rules of procedure of SEANF – who will be director executive? Nationality of staff etc.

SEANF is a consensus based institution by nature -unlikely to work. Autonomy under threat with suggested sub regional Qatar office MoU format.

11.3. CHRP does not agree – maybe discuss alternatives while HCA draft in progress - requested clarity on how SEANF can resolve the issue of possible unilateral termination regarding the Host Country Agreement? Additionally - how can we ensure independence and autonomy as NHRIs?

11.4. SUHAKAM agreed with PDHJ's view and added that the draft HCA is a well negotiated agreement that grants immunities privileges and that 6 months notification for termination is the norm.

12. Komnas HAM to update the progress of SEANF website

12.1. Komnas has been already developing the SEANF website design by empowering internal resources on budget plan and human resources. In this meeting, Komnas HAM offered three mock up website layouts and SEANF logo to SEANF members.

12.2. Komnas HAM held internal meeting and has received offering by third party for the development on the website. Komnas

HAM is seeking information on the SEANF profile, activities, publications of SEANF members, and stakeholders such as the APF, AICHR, and GANHRI.

12.3. Komnas HAM is still working to rearrange budget to develop the SEANF website. During the meeting, Komnas HAM suggested a working group for the SEANF website and its development in more detail (date to be confirmed). Addition to this, Proposed content was presented in the meeting. The layout consisted of seven (7) headings: mandate of SEANF; Charter; Mandate of each SEANF member; SEANF reports/presentations/studies; position papers, resolutions, advisories, reports, or other publications of member NHRIs; and UN submissions and periodic reports. The IT department of Komnas HAM suggested that the SEANF website should be dynamic instead of static and mock layouts would be sent to SEANF members for reviewing and inputs. Yet, the domain addresses relating to SEANF has been taken (SEANF.org/ SEANF.asia are already taken).

12.4. CHRP supported for the new SEANF website and would retrieve files and documents from old SEANF website and would send it to Komnas HAM as soon as possible.

13. Discussion on the Modality of SEANF Annual Conference 2020

13.1. Provisional agenda- Komnas HAM proposed four days of Annual Conference (initially three days but also includes international seminar on torture prevention and a seminar on statelessness in SEANF member States convened prior to the Annual Conference which will take one full day). Draft of this agenda has been circulated to all SEANF members.

- 13.2.1 SUHAKAM supported the 3 half-day option for the Annual Conference and for the two aforementioned seminars to be held in the afternoon
- 13.3. Proposal on the seminar on stateless in Sabah: Side Event in Conjunction with SEANF Annual Conference 2020- to engage in dialogue and identify regional solutions (collaborations) in Sabah to improve the situation for stateless person(s). This seminar will look into root causes such as historical factors, enablers, and the role of regional actors. One of the core objectives is to enhance the role and cooperation of regional and international organisation as statelessness is a cross-border issue.

14. Other Matters

Discussion on the engagement of SEANF with AICHR

- 14.1. Komnas HAM reported that AICHR Representative of Laos has already approve to held informal meeting with SEANF. AICHR Indonesian Representatives suggested SEANF to send letter and proposal to AICHR Chair to get scheduled meeting since their meeting will be rescheduled in November 2020. However, according to the AICHR Indonesian Representative which tried to table the meeting but no direct response from AICHR chair. A follow-up letter to confirm the meeting may be necessary. Komnas HAM was waiting for Laos to agree to have a meeting with both organizations. Based on the communication, Laos has given approval to meet SEANF and AICHR.
- 14.2. MNHCR has engaged with all organization and gave good recommendation to hold internal meeting with AICHR. MNHCR suggested to contact Chairman of AICHR.

However, meeting in an informal setting may send a wrong message to third parties. MNHCR suggests directly writing a formal invitation to the chair of AICHR.

- 14.3. SUHAKAM expressed its support for informal dialogues with AICHR and the proposal to write to the AICHR Chair.
- 14.4. SEANF Chairman considered SUHAKAM' inputs to set the informal meeting agenda

15. Discussion on the ANNI's Formal Meeting

SUHAKAM expressed its support to have dialogues with groups that are interested to work with NHRIs in the region. Komnas HAM suggested that it might be held online informal discussion within SEANF members.
